

News from the Anglican Centre · June 2014

Greetings everyone,

May was always going to be a challenging month with the General Synod of the Church meeting in the Bay of Islands particularly with the issue of human sexuality and the report of the Ma Whea Commission high on the Agenda. It certainly was a very intense couple of weeks. The final passing of what has become known as Motion 30 was a very fair reflection of where the Church has come to in the whole discussion surrounding same gendered relationships.

It included a very strong affirmation of the traditional doctrine of marriage that is part of the formularies that undergird our constitution. This means that any consideration of same-gendered blessing is a doctrinal issue that cannot be approved without changes to the Canons and formularies of the Church and that we have a process by which this can be considered – at least a four-year process. But, at the same time it was recognised that there would need to be some sort of structural separation if such a constitutional change was to be approved.

My own take is that the breadth of that structural separation is totally dependent upon how radical the ‘progressives’ (as they like to label themselves) choose to be in the revising of the Canons. Meanwhile General Synod also allowed the recognising of people in same gendered relationship within our parishes – but that this could only happen with the approval of the Vestry and the Bishop. This clause was also well watered down from the first draft which asked that the Church ‘receive’ same gendered couples into the life of the Church.

What the motion does is provide us with a very clear process of moving ahead and our General Synod representatives are all committed to being a part of that process - as are many of the other evangelically orthodox voices at General Synod. The Rev. Dr. Andrew Burgess has been appointed to that working party.

It’s great to be home in time to celebrate the Ascension (today) and then move into the exciting festival of Pentecost. Pentecost used to be described as ‘the birthday of the Church.’ But actually I’m not so sure. I think the Ascension is the birthday of the Church because this was when the Church was given its mission (or its commission – in Matthew 28!). Pentecost was simply the empowering for the mission given at the Ascension. Pretty exciting time of recommitment for us all – but also the chance to recognise that without the life-giving power of the Spirit our mission will falter and we face the danger of dropping the baton....

It’s wonderful to have Greg and Jacqui Holmes here with us in Victory Community Anglican Church (together with their son Samuel). It was a wonderful (and uniquely Victory) induction service. David Hollingsworth’s sermon was brilliant – ranging from nautical images to wild-west images. He asked the question, ‘If you had to describe your parish as a ship – what sort of ship would it be?’ He then went on to describe the different kinds of ships from the luxury liner on the one hand – where everybody on board expects to be pandered to by the crew and to have all their needs met – to the landing craft – which is pretty uncomfortable and designed purely to enable those on board to take the beach-head...’ I think you probably get the metaphor. There was much hilarity, but much soul-searching!

This coming Sunday I will be at Nativity to institute the first members into the Mission Order of St Paul. Bob Barnes will be commissioned as a Presbyter within the Order – making him a kind of overseer of the growth of new missional communities. Nine people will be received as members of the Order. So what started as a dream is now becoming a reality as we begin this first pilot. More information on this Order will shortly be found on the Diocesan website.

And finally, just to let you all know of another new initiative which we are pioneering in Greymouth later in June, where the whole of the Bishop’s Ministry Team are travelling together to spend a weekend in the parishes of Cobden-Rununga and Greymouth. We’ll be repeating this experiment in Blenheim later in the year and we look forward to the feedback as to whether this is something that we should do every year.

Have a wonderful Pentecost celebration.

With much love

+Richard

EQUIP MINISTRY EDUCATION

I am concerned that EQUIP is not being advertised in parishes so can you please make the effort to advertise this and ask people to come. EQUIP is for anyone involved in, or interested in ministry (not just preaching) so please encourage your people to come. Anyone is welcome to come to any EQUIP unit if it is of interest – you do not have to sign up to the 3 years programme. Can you please pass this on and encourage your lay leaders to consider coming to EQUIP units relevant to their ministry area.

So we have further developed our course with some new material and the inclusion of the best material from previous years.

SOCIAL SERVICES ENABLER

Dear ministry colleagues, As you will be aware, we are rolling out the bequest form brochure holders to all parishes from now on. If you have not done so and wish to have your parish brochure printed from the Anglican Centre please send Julie your information/photos as soon as possible. The only other task is to identify a parish representative who is willing to be the 'go to' person to give information to enquiring parishioners and who will keep the brochure holder stocked with the various pamphlets for BTC, your parish and Anglican Care (social services) and the rack card with their contact details. Thank you for your attention to this initiative giving our people the opportunity to consider a donation or bequest.

A reminder if you are thinking of a variation to your OPMF (Seniors' Ministry) grant for 2015 (and later) then please get in touch to discuss or have your application returned to me by 1 July.

Also we have been advised by the Anglican Care Network that applications are now open for the annual Tindall Foundation funding round. The application form for this year has some minor changes and will be available on the Diocesan website in the next few days. Please contact me if you wish to discuss this or any other Diocesan funding options or ministry outreach dreams. I am excited to be hearing of some innovative ideas taking shape - the Holy Spirit is at work.

Thank you and blessings
